Introduction

We are passionate about sharing your ideas with the world through our blog. Your desire to change the world even as an online volunteer inspires us. As a result, we are keen on making your volunteering experience a memorable one. One that you will never forget.

Topics to write about

We welcome various topics of interest – from sustainable development goals to supporting a charity on a budget. The ideas are limitless.

World count

All articles need to be between 350 to 500 words maximum. Longer articles will have to be split into parts.

How soon will Urim publish my article?

We strive to publish an article within 24 hours. Most of the times we would publish it earlier if it does not contain grammatical and other errors that need significant editing.

“We use online tools to check plagiarism. Non-original submissions will be removed from our blog”

Some helpful tips

If English is not your first language, you definitely need to get a friend or loved one to edit your article before submitting it to the Urim blog for publishing. Please ensure that you add your short bio with the article. You can submit the article by email or on the prescribed form on our website.

These guidelines are subject to continuous review. If in doubt, please email us.
